

CELEBRATING OUR 10TH ANNIVERSARY

DEMETER

Feminist Publishing on Mothering, Reproduction, Sexuality, and Family

DEMETER PRESS is partnered with the Motherhood Initiative for Research and Community Involvement (MIRCI). Founded in 1998, MIRCI's mandate is to provide a forum for the discussion and dissemination of research and writing on motherhood and to establish a community of individuals and institutions working and researching in the area of mothering and motherhood. Demeter, first and foremost, seeks to promote maternal scholarship and writing, both at the university and community level, by publishing books that speak to women's diverse insights, experiences, ideas, stories, studies, and concerns about mothering, reproduction, sexuality and family.

Founded in 2006, Demeter Press is the first publisher focused specifically on Mothering, Reproduction, Sexuality and Family. We are an independent feminist press committed to publishing peer-reviewed scholarly work and creative non-fiction on mothering, reproduction, sexuality and family issues. The press is named in honour of the Goddess Demeter, herstory's most celebrated empowered and outraged mother.

Feminist Parenting

edited by Heather Jackson, Lynn Comerford, and Kandee Kosior

Feminist Parenting is a collection of writings from women around the globe who offer unique standpoints on feminist theory, parenting, and empowerment, through poetry, research, and prose. Global perspectives include Anwar Shaheen's research on parenting inequality in Pakistan, Marlene Pomrenke's examination of Aboriginal single mothers attending University, and Iza Desperak's insights on commonalities between contemporary single motherhood in Poland and twentieth century Papua, New Guinea. The collection offers Johanna Wagner's witty, self-reflective essay on her ambivalence toward her new role as a lesbian parent, and Sarah Keeth's abortion fantasy sonnet "Tomatoes" in which she describes a pregnant woman who desires, yet struggles with her pregnancy.

Heather Jackson, a former teen mom, is now a 30-something single mom of a teen. She is a former site producer of girl-mom.com. Currently, she works as a birth doula, case manager of pregnant and parenting teens, and early childhood data collector in the Upper Northeast. She recently published a chapter in The Bakken Goes Boom. Her writing has also been published on thepushback.org, hipmama.com, girl-mom.com.

Lynn Comerford, PhD, is a sociologist and Professor in the Department of Human Development and Women's Studies at California State University, East Bay. Comerford is director of Women's Studies and writes in the areas of feminist theory; state power and parental rights; and coparenting. Her work has been published in numerous journals and books. She is one of two feminist parents of a teen daughter.

Kandee Kosior is a feminist mother with special research interests in women and the law, moral regulation, women's human rights and motherhood. She has a BFA from the University of Regina, a BA in Criminology from University of Toronto and is a graduate of the Women's Human Rights Education Institute, OISE, University of Toronto. She is currently on the editorial board for the inaugural issue of the Museum of Motherhood's Journal of Mother Studies (JourMS).

Feminist Parenting brings together unique voices and provides riveting perspectives on an institution in flux. The anthology pulls back the veil on power dynamics in relationships and exposes some of the challenges of feminist parenting in society. Authors shed critical light on long-held parenting conventions such as unpaid carework labor, gender roles, and family power dynamics, and expose how particular conventions reproduce gendered inequality. Feminist resistance strategies are offered by authors for "doing parenting," to increase "mother-power" in the family. This collection raises important questions about contemporary women's roles and adds to the current literature on feminism, parenting, gender, and family diversity.

Mothering in Religious and Spiritual Contexts

edited by Vanessa Reimer

This collection brings together scholarly and creative pieces that reveal how the intellectual, emotional, and physical work of mothering is informed by women's diverse religiosities and spiritualities. Its contributors examine contemporary and historical perspectives on religious and spiritual mothering through interdisciplinary research, feminist life writing, textual analyses, and creative non-fiction work.

In contrast to the bulk of feminist scholarship which marginalizes women's religious and spiritual knowledges, this volume explores how such epistemologies fundamentally shape the lived experiences of many mothers across the globe, and it further elucidates the empowerment and enrichment that women derive from their religious beliefs and spiritual worldviews. In doing so, it highlights the vital contributions that mothers have made, and continue to make, in transforming their local communities and institutions, as well as their broader religious and spiritual traditions.

Vanessa Reimer holds a PhD in Gender, Feminist and Women's Studies from York University. She is the co-editor of Demeter Press collections Mother of Invention: How Our Mothers Influenced us As Feminist Academics and Activists and The Mother-Blame Game. Her research interests include feminist studies in religion, girlhood, and mothering.

Borderlands and Crossroads Writing the Motherland edited by Jane Satterfield and Laurie Kruk

Motherhood does not just originate in the body, but in the world—a place, a region, a country or nation, a landscape, a language, a culture. Mothers are, as novelist Rachel Cusk once observed, “the countries we come from.” This unique literary anthology features thirty-five poems and twenty-three works of prose (creative non-fiction and short fiction). Here, forty-three award-winning and accomplished writers reflect on their complex twenty-first century familial identities and relationships, exploring maternal landscapes of all kinds, including those of heritage, matrilineage, genealogy, geography, emigration, war, exile, alienation, and affiliation.

Spanning the globe—from the UK, the USA, and Canada, Egypt, the former Yugoslavia, France, Africa, Korea and South America—these intimate and honest narratives of the heart cross borders and define crossroads that are personal and political, old and new. Recovering the maternal landscape through poetry and prose, these writers both memorialize and celebrate the power of family to define, limit, and challenge us.

“The reach is global in this gripping collection of poems, stories, and creative non-fiction about mothers and mothering. Here are voices wide-ranging and complex; they tell of love, loss, and renunciation. A wife dies in a cattle car destined for Auschwitz and her husband is forced to make a decisive move to care for their five-day-old son. A carefully guarded secret about her marriage is revealed after the death of a devout grandmother. An unplanned second pregnancy gives rise to confusion and remorse for biological and adoptive mother alike. The landscape of mothering is drawn anew in this raw and haunting collection. Every word rings true.”

The Migrant Maternal

“Birthing” New Lives Abroad

Anna Kuroczycka Schultes and Helen Vallianatos, eds.

This edited volume explores how and why immigrant/refugee mothers’ experiences differ due to the challenges posed by the migration process but also what commonalities underline immigrant/refugee mothers’ lived experiences. This book will add to the field of women’s studies the much-needed discussion of how immigrant and refugee mothers’ lives are dependent on cultural, environmental and socio-economic circumstances. The collection offers multiple perspectives on migrant mothering by including ethnographic and theoretical submissions along with mothers’ personal narratives and literary analyses from diverse locales: New Zealand, Japan, Canada, The United States, Turkey, Italy and the Netherlands among others.

The first section of the volume focuses on mothers’ roles in the family institution and the pressures and responsibilities they face in “creating” and “reproducing” families physically and socially. The second section shifts its attention to children and highlights mothers’ continued roles in the development of their children abroad, along with the gendered/generational dynamics in the settlement process and the resultant effects on motherhood responsibilities. In all chapters, readers will find how women negotiate their traditional roles in a new sociocultural milieu, and how mothering processes are critical in creating connections with traditions and homelands.

Anna Kuroczycka Schultes holds a PhD in English-Modern Studies and a Women’s Studies certificate from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee. A former Advanced Opportunity Program Fellow at UWM, Anna’s research focuses on migrant female domestic workers, immigration, mothering and care work. Her publications have appeared, among others, in The Journal of Research on Women and Gender (2010), An Anthropology of Mothering (Demeter Press, 2011), and in Anti-Immigration in the United States: A Historical Encyclopedia (2011). Anna’s interest in migration is fueled by feminist research theories. Over the past several years she has been conducting research on Polish mothers in the Chicagoland area.

Helen Vallianatos is an Associate Professor in Anthropology and Associate Dean in the Office of the Dean of Students, University of Alberta. Her research and teaching interests focus on food, gender, body and health issues, and the majority of her research involves collaborative, interdisciplinary work across disciplines and with various community organizations. Much of her recent research has focused on migrant mothers’ health and well-being.

Matricentric Feminism

Theory, Activism, Practice

by Andrea O'Reilly

The book argues that the category of mother is distinct from the category of woman and that many of the problems mothers face—socially, economically, politically, culturally, and psychologically—are specific to women's work and identity as mothers. Indeed, mothers, arguably more so than women in general, remain disempowered despite forty years of feminism. Mothers, thus, need a feminism of their own, one that positions mothers' concerns as the starting point for a theory and politic of empowerment. O'Reilly terms this new mode of feminism "matricentric feminism," and the book explores how it is represented and experienced in theory, activism, and practice.

The chapter on maternal theory examines the central theoretical concepts of maternal scholarship to include Adrienne Rich's distinction between mothering and motherhood, Sara Ruddick's model of maternal thinking and practice and Patricia Hill Collins' concept of othermothering, while the chapter on activism considers the twenty-first century motherhood movement. Feminist mothering is likewise examined as the specific practice of matricentric feminism and this chapter discusses various theories and strategies on and for maternal empowerment. Matricentric feminism is also examined in relation to the larger field of Feminist Theory and Women's Studies; here O'Reilly persuasively shows how matricentric feminism has been marginalized in feminist scholarship and considers the reasons for such exclusion and how such may be challenged and changed.

Taking the Village Online

Mothers, Motherhood, and Social Media

edited by Lorin Basden Arnold and BettyAnn Martin

The rise of social media has changed how we understand and enact relationships across our lives, including motherhood. The meanings and practices of mothering have been significantly impacted by the availability of online mother groups (Facebook, Twitter, Instagram) as well as internet resources intended to ‘enhance’ and inform maternal experience and self-concept (ex. pinterest, YouTube). The village that now contributes to the mothering experience has grown exponentially, granting mothers access to interactional partners and knowledge never before available. This volume of works explores the impact of social media forms on our cultural understandings of motherhood and the ways that we communicate about the experience and practice of mothering.

The contributing authors in this anthology address diverse topics in mothering and social media, including framing of stepmothers in online forums, mothering in the digital diaspora, the construction of the “bad mother” on Twitter, immersive gaming and parenting classes, virtual mother outlaws, alternative mothering websites, feminist parenting, and more. While the works are primarily rooted in critical and feminist perspectives, a variety of methodologies and approaches to studying mothering and social media are represented in this text, and encourage a robust and thoughtful examination of the role of interactive media in the maternal experience.

Lorin Basden Arnold, PhD, is a family communication and gender scholar. Her recent scholarly work has primarily related to understandings and enactments of motherhood. Her work has appeared in recent Demeter editions, including Intensive Mothering: The Cultural Contradictions of Modern Motherhood and What's Cooking Mom? Narratives about Food and Family. She is the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at the State University of New York, New Paltz.

BettyAnn Martin is a doctoral candidate in Educational Sustainability at Nipissing University, North Bay, Ontario. She is an educator, doula, mother, and postpartum support coordinator with PSI (Postpartum Support International). Her research interests include the cultural mediation of maternal experience and identity, as well as the educational and therapeutic aspects of shared personal narrative.

Interrogating Reproductive Loss

Feminist Writings on Abortion, Miscarriage and Stillbirth

edited by Emily R. M. Lind and Angie Deveau

Feminist theories of the body, reproduction, and the institution of motherhood typically focus on issues of rights, autonomy, and choice. These themes become increasingly complicated when applied to questions of reproductive loss. Interrogating Reproductive Loss: Feminist Writings on Abortion, Miscarriage, and Stillbirth contains essays, short stories, and artwork that imagine a feminist epistemology of loss.

Whereas biomedical and feminist literature treat abortion, miscarriage, and stillbirth as differently conceptualized events, this collection explores the connections between these three categories. How have feminist debates and strategies around reproductive choice invigorated the cultural conversation about miscarriage, and stillbirth? How can we imagine more nuanced engagements with the spectrum of experiences that are at stake when a pregnancy ends? And how can we effectively create a space where women are given the opportunities to “identify and ‘own’” (Cosgrove 2004) the ways that loss makes meaning for those who grieve and/or celebrate the end of pregnancy?

Emily R.M. Lind is a doctoral candidate at Carleton University’s Institute for Comparative Studies in Literature, Art, and Culture. Her research examines the intersections between identity, materiality, power, and knowledge production in interdisciplinary contexts. She is currently writing her dissertation on settler colonialism, Canadian art, and early twentieth-century Toronto.

Angie Deveau is a graduate of York University’s Women’s Studies MA Program and has been working for the Motherhood Initiative for Research and Community Involvement for nearly five years. Previously, she provided research assistance for York University’s Gender and Work Database, York University’s “Women’s Human Rights, Macroeconomics and Policy Choices’ project and the ‘Adolescent Health and Wellbeing Study’ at UNB. In addition to her background in research, Angie has worked as a Case Management Assistant for the Province of Nova Scotia’s Department of Community Services (Social Assistance Division), and as the Community Development Coordinator for the Victorian Order of Nurses/Help the Aged project in Fredericton, New Brunswick. She is currently in the planning stages of co-editing a collection on mothering and yoga, meditation, and mindfulness.

Muslim Mothering is an interdisciplinary volume, concentrating on the experiences of Muslim mothers, largely in the contemporary period. The volume is notable for the global range of its contributors and topics, indicative of the number of Muslim majority national contexts and large and diverse Muslim diaspora of today's world. While motherhood is highly valued in the sacred texts of Islam, the lived reality of Muslim mothers demonstrates that their lives do not often conform with traditional religious paradigms. Contributions discuss the way that Muslim mothers negotiate cultural institutions and practices, such as divorce, adoption/guardianship, post-partum confinement, and societal/religious expectations of procreation.

This collection demonstrates the diverse and complex ways that Muslim mothers define and redefine the resources of Islam to negotiate better situations for themselves and their children, revealing how religious identity is a dynamic and vital force in their everyday lives.

This anthology, in a departure from common approaches to studying motherhood, principally privileges mother knowledge and not knowledge about mothers. The autoethnographic lens applied in the different contributions centre phenomenological mother knowledge in examining occupational, relational and emotional dimensions of mothering sons.

Mothers and Sons: Centering Mother Knowledge makes a case for the need to de-gender the framing and study of parental legacy. The actualization of an entire collection on this dyad foregrounding motherhood without particularizing the absence of fatherhood is in itself revolutionary. This assemblage of analytical, narrative and creative renderings offers cross-disciplinary conceptualizations of maternal experiences across difference and mothering sons at intersections. The authors' mother knowledge, or that of their subjects, delivers new insights into the appellations mother, son, motherhood and sonhood.

The 21st century sustains one significant commonality with the decades of the preceding century. The majority of individuals parenting on their own and heading one-parent families continue to be mothers. Even so, current trends in globalization (economic, political, cultural) along with technological advancement, shifts in political, economic and social policy, contemporary demographic shifts, changing trends in the labor sector linked to global economics, and developments in legislative and judicial output, all signify the distinctiveness of the current moment with regard to family patterns and social norms.

Seeking to contribute to an existing body of literature focused on single motherhood and lone parenting in the 20th century, this collection explores and illuminates a more recent landscape of 21st century debates, policies, and experiences surrounding single motherhood and one-parent headed families.

This book explores the perceptions of those who engage in and/or research motherwork or the labour of caregiving, and how mothers view themselves in comparison to broader normative understandings of motherwork. Here, the anthology serves to deconstruct motherwork by highlighting and dislodging it from maternal ideology, the socially constructed “good mom” (read as “sacrificial mom”) and feminized hegemonic discourse.

“This rich collection draws together accomplished motherhood scholars across disciplines to raise new questions about how we define and understand global motherhood. It gives voice and new perspective to maternal figures previously less recognized in academic reading. Most importantly, the global perspectives explored in this book will raise awareness about the challenges of understanding motherhood both as an experience and a discipline.” —LAURA TROPP, Professor, Marymount Manhattan College, author of A Womb With a View: America’s Growing Public Interest in Pregnancy

From multidisciplinary perspectives, this volume explores the roles mothers play in the producing, purchasing, preparing and serving of food to their own families and to their communities in a variety of contexts. Questioning the motto according to which “people are what they eat,” the chapters in this volume show that mothers cannot be categorized simply by how they feed themselves and their family.

“This collection explores the ways that a mother’s role in food procurement, food preparation, and meal serving becomes a crucible for gendered, class, and racial dynamics that reflect public and private agendas. Mothers are shown to be agentive actors whose mothering work repurposes, repackages and rewrites dominant ideologies through everyday activity. The authors creatively demonstrate important ways that mainstream discourse and the dynamics of the neoliberal project articulate with mothers’ lives and identities in their kitchens and at their dinner tables.” —JANET PAGE-REEVE, Research Assistant Professor, University of New Mexico

This book provides a rare and in-depth examination of the narratives, experiences, and lived realities of abused mothers—a group of women who, despite being the victims, are often criticized, vilified, and stigmatized for failing to meet dominant ideologies of what a “good mother” is/should be, because they have lived and mothered in domestic abuse relationships.

“This study is innovative and of great value in presenting complex, nuanced, agentic and diverse subjectivities of mothers who have experienced domestic abuse. This book should be read by academics as well as activists, by anyone who seeks to understand the lived realities and subjectivities of mothers who live in, or have survived abuse. Finally, the book will be a valuable resource for mothers who have themselves suffered abuse, affording a venue for them to see themselves represented as subjects, not merely statistical samples or passive objects.”—REBECCA BROMWICH, Department of Law and Legal Studies, Carleton University, Ottawa

In the year 2000, United Nations world leaders set out eight targets, the UN Millennium Development Goals, for achieving improved standards of living at the micro level in poorer nations around the globe, by the year 2015. The papers in this collection present fine-detailed ethnographic studies of cultures in Africa and Oceania, with a focus primarily on MDG 3, targeted to “promote gender equality and empower women” and MDG 5, targeted to “improve maternal health” to ascertain whether or not these goals have made or missed their mark.

“This is a unique book that brings together fine-grained ethnographic research on women’s health in various global contexts, and does so in the particular development context of the Millennium Development Goals. The topic is significant, particularly as we have come to the end of the timeframe of the MDGs and there is work being done to shape where the development and maternal health fields go from here. Having a socio-cultural perspective is imperative at this point.”—SUSAN R. HEMER, University of Adelaide

On Mothering Multiples: Complexities and Possibilities seeks to (re)explore, (re)present, and make meaning of the process of conception, pregnancy, childbirth, and mothering experiences with multiples. It features a collection of scholarly, creative non-fiction and visual essays from a wide range of disciplines and cultural perspectives. Additionally, these scholarly and more artful accounts contribute to a body of literature that, although present, is also limited, and provide insight into some of the complexities and possibilities inherent in mothering multiples.

“This edited collection of narratives documents the sorrows, joys, fears and the complexities of intertwined emotions and realities involved in conceiving, birthing, parenting and caring for multiple babies. The stories are candid, realistic and relevant; each confronting controversial issues and debunking myths with clarity and conviction.”—SHARON ABBEY, Faculty of Education, Brock University, St. Catharines

In December of 2012 in Delhi, India a woman was gang raped, tortured, and inflicted with such bodily violence that she died as a result of the injuries. The case caused massive public protests in Delhi and throughout the Indian subcontinent. One year after this case, The Supreme Court of India made the contentious decision to uphold Section 377 of the Indian Penal Code, which criminalizes sexual activities deemed to be “unnatural,” namely same sex desire and queer people. Both these cases received worldwide media attention and lead to public demonstrations and debates regarding sexual politics throughout Asia and globally. Drawing on interviews done in the Indian subcontinent, this book suggests that while colonial violence haunts postcolonial sexualities, anti-colonial resistance also remains, echoing in the streets like the chorus of an old song.

“Atluri provides a stunning contrapuntal analysis of gender and sexuality at the crossroads of feminist, queer, transnational, and postcolonial studies.”—AMAR WAHAB, Coordinator, Sexuality Studies Program, School of Gender, Sexuality and Women's Studies, York University, Canada

Using a variety of critical and theoretical approaches, the contributing scholars to this collection analyze culturally specific and globally held attitudes about mothers and mothering, as represented in world cinema. Examining films from a range of countries including Afghanistan, India, Iran, Eastern Europe, Canada, and the United States, the various chapters contextualize the socio-cultural realities of motherhood as they are represented on screen, and explore the maternal figure as she has been glamorized and celebrated, while simultaneously subjected to public scrutiny.

“This book brings welcome critical scrutiny to a range of films and concerns not widely circulated and, in so doing, opens a conversation calling for responses and examples from other quarters. A valuable addition for all concerned with film, gender and women’s studies.” —GAIL VANSTONE, author of D is for Daring: A Feminist Cultural History of Canada’s National Film Board’s Studio D

What's Cooking, Mom? offers original and inventive narratives, including auto-ethnographic discussions of representations, discourses and practices about and by mothers regarding food and families. These narratives discuss the multiple strategies through which mothers manage feeding themselves and others, and how these are shaped by international and regional food politics, by global and local food cultures and by their own ethical values and preference, as well as by those of the ones they feed.

“Drawn from life, the stories collected in What's Cooking introduce students and general readers to just how complex, troubling and rewarding, mothers' responsibilities for feeding their families can be. This is very rich fare!”—DONNA R. GABACCIA, Professor, Department of Historical and Cultural Studies, University of Toronto

The scholarship in this volume draws attention to doula work as intimate and relational while highlighting the way boundaries are created, maintained, challenged, and transformed. Intimate labour as a theoretical construct provides a way to think about the kind of care doulas offer women across the reproductive spectrum. This book weaves together three main threads: doulas and mothers, doulas and their community, and finally, doulas and institutions.

“This book provides insight, clarification, direction, and considerations, for present and future growth of the doula model of care. This model of care has been, and will continue to be, a powerful conduit for changes in childbirth, and maternity support and care. Highly recommended for required reading in nursing courses, women’s studies, doula programs, and midwifery training. An outstanding contribution to the literature!”—SUSAN K. GRABIA, Faculty Associate, UoW, School of Nursing, Madison, WI

The Mother-Blame Game

ed. by Vanessa Reimer and Sarah Sahagian

November 2015 / 978-1-926452-14-2 / $29.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 308 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

The Mother-Blame Game is an interdisciplinary and intersectional examination of the phenomenon of mother-blame in the twenty-first century. As the socioeconomic and cultural expectations of what constitutes “good motherhood” grow continually narrow and exclusionary, mothers are demonized and stigmatized—perhaps now more than ever—for all that is perceived to go “wrong” in their children’s lives. This anthology brings together creative and scholarly contributions from feminist academics and activists alike to provide a dynamic study of the many varied ways in which mothers are blamed and shamed for their maternal practice.

“The many provocative essays that Vanessa Reimer and Sarah Sahagian have collected in The Mother-Blame Game take on the shaming of the maternal body — for being too young or too fat or too willing to breastfeed — as well as the cultural blaming of mothers, related to childrearing methods, protectiveness of children, choices around work, and so many more issues. This volume offers an entry point into many important conversations that are waiting to be had.”—RACHEL EPP BULLER, author of Reconciling Art and Mothering

Essential Breakthroughs

Conversations about Men, Mothers, and Mothering

ed. by Fiona Joy Green and Gary Lee Pelletier

November 2015 / 978-1-926452-16-6 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 250 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

The authors creatively blend the philosophical and the personal to collectively argue that while gender is essential to our social and theoretical definitions of care, it is dangerously co-opted into naturalized discourses, which limit particular identities and negate certain forms of care. The perspectives curated in Essential Breakthroughs illuminate how care, as a respected and productive cultural ethic, is neither inherent nor instinctual for any human, but is learned and fostered.

“Including compelling narratives from expectant fathers and male nannies to lesbian mothers and transmen making different reproductive decisions, [this book] provides a rich starting place from which to think about the limitations of normative discourses around mothering. This is a vital collection for those wishing to engage a conversation about men and mothering that is simultaneously queer and feminist, that abandons gender essentialism while retaining a maternal lens as an essential tool of critical analysis.” —SHELLEY PARK, Associate Professor of Philosophy, University of Central Florida, author of Mothering Queerly, Queering Motherhood

Looking for Ashley

Re-reading What the Smith Case Reveals about the Governance of Girls, Mothers and Families in Canada

by Rebecca Jaremko Bromwich

October 2015 / 978-1-926452-69-2 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 255 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

“Looking for Ashley is a richly textured and theoretically grounded analysis of what the author terms the social, juridical and biological deaths of Ashley Smith while in custody in Canada in 2007. In this compelling and challenging read, Rebecca Jaremko Bromwich conscientiously takes the reader through multiple interpretations of diverse data-including diaries, news reports and official documents-to illustrate the competing social constructions of Ashley that facilitated both her death and the official and public understandings of her death. The result is a book that encourages all of us to reconsider the power and use of such constructions in our efforts to seek or to analyze justice.”

Black Motherhood(s)

Contexts, Countours and Considerations

ed. by Karen T. Craddock

October 2015 / 978-1-927335-25-3 / $29.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 230 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

With an aim to extend traditional treatments of Black motherhood that are often centered on a subordinated and struggling perspective, these essays address some of the hegemonic reality while also exploring nuance in experiences, less explored areas of subjugation, as well as pathways of resistance and resilience in spite of it. Largely focusing within domains such as narrative, identity, spirituality and sexuality, the book deftly explores black motherhood by incorporating varied arenas for discussion including: literary analysis, expressive arts, historical fiction, the African Diaspora, reproductive health, religion and social ecology.

“The insight provided by this volume centers on how the authors are able to illustrate the ways in which black women in the U.S., Europe, and Africa meet challenges across time, across situations, in intimate familiar relationships, and in public and in private spaces. That these chapters cross so many different contexts is extremely important at a time in which black women themselves are increasingly dispersed throughout the world.” —JANE VICTORIA WARD, author of The Skin We’re In

Natal Signs

Cultural Meanings of Pregnancy, Birth and Parenting

ed. by Nadya Burton

September 2015 / 978-1-926452-32-6 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 378 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

The chapters in this collection pose questions, unsettle assumptions, and generate broad imaginative spaces for thinking about representation of pregnancy, birth, and parenting. They demonstrate the ways in which practices of consuming and using representations carry within them the productive forces of creation. Bringing together an eclectic and vibrant range of perspectives, this collection offers readers the possibility to rethink and reimagine the diverse meanings and practices of representations of these significant life events. Natal Signs gathers an exciting set of critically engaged voices to reflect on some of life's most meaningful moments in ways that affirm natality as the renewed promise of possibility “Through vivid, intimate prose and visceral imagery, Natal Signs takes standard ideas about birth and shifts them completely. This groundbreaking book is required reading for anyone interested in an expanded understanding of the multiplicity and sensuality of pregnancy, birth and parenting.”

Reading/Speaking/Writing the Mother Text
 Essays on Caribbean Women's Writing
 ed. by Cristina Herrera and Paula Sanmartin

August 2015 / 978-1-926452-70-8 / $29.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 256 pp.
 MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

While this collection presents a similar comparative and diasporic approach to other book-length studies on Caribbean women's writing, it also includes a wider geographical, linguistic, ethnic and generic diversity, while exposing the myriad ways in which Caribbean women authors shape and construct their texts to theorize motherhood, mothering, maternity, and mother-daughter relationships.

"Insightful and thoughtful, this collection not only addresses major concerns in feminist maternal scholarship by affording a critical textual discussion of different themes and literary genres but also enriches our understanding of diversity in the Caribbean context by adding more discussions in light of a wider spectrum of languages, cultures and racial differences."—YILIN YU, author of Mother, She Wrote

Mothers, Mothering and Sex Work ed. by Rebecca Bromwich and Monique Marie DeJong

July 2015 / 978-1-926452-12-8 / $29.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 294 pp.
 MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Mothers, Mothering and Sex Work brings together unique and controversial viewpoints defying conventional wisdom to provide fresh insights into sex workers and their rights. Beginning with the political, legal and social context of sexuality and gender in Canada, the book's focus widens to explore issues affecting sex workers worldwide.

"Taking a transdisciplinary approach, the creative-critical anthology engages with the resistance, resilience, joy and humour that sex-working mothers demonstrate in the face of stigma, oppression and sex work-phobic maternal discourses."
 —UMMNI KHAN, Associate Professor, Carleton University

Mothers Under Fire
 Mothering in Conflict Areas
 ed. by Tatjana Takševa and Arlene Sgoutas

 MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

The essays in the collection raise awareness of the needs of women and children in areas affected by military and/or political violence worldwide, and provides a basis for developing multiple policy frameworks aimed at improving existing systems of support in local contexts.

"A new and refreshing look at the various ways the maternal can and does serve as a resource for peacebuilding. The range of articles is broad and nuanced, offering an important imaginative resource for practitioners as well as scholars."—SUSAN ST VILLE, Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies, University of Notre Dame

“This Is What a Feminist Slut Looks Like”

Perspectives on the SlutWalk Movement

ed. by Alyssa Teekah, Erika Jane Scholz, May Friedman and A. O’Reilly

April 2015 / 978-1-926452-15-9 / $24.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 240 pp.

WOMEN’S STUDIES / SOCIOLOGY / SOCIAL MOVEMENTS / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

The chapters in this collection take up Slutwalk through a feminist lens (broadly defined) considering Slutwalk as a successful social movement, a site of tremendous controversy, and an ongoing discussion among and between waves of feminists across the life cycle and across the globe. Contributors unpack the discursive performance of Slutwalk and explore the experiences of people who attended various and diverse Slutwalks marches/protests in North America and Asia.

“This manuscript is a nuanced analysis of the SlutWalk movement, providing neither singular endorsement nor simplified critique. Overall, the manuscript is a brilliant and effective analysis of an extremely pivotal and influential movement.”

Anansemem

Telling Stories and Storytelling African Maternal Pedagogies

by Adwoa Ntozake Onuora

March 2015 / 978-1-927335-19-2 / $19.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 150 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / CULTURAL STUDIES / MEMOIR / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Anansemem: Telling Stories and Storytelling African Maternal Pedagogies seeks to celebrate the African mother’s everyday experiences and honour her embodied and cultural knowledges as important sites of meaning making and discovery for the African child.

“Anansemem is unequivocal about the essentiality of using cultural forms in the making of a person. She is right—our children’s ‘thrive barometer’ is elevated by strategies that build ‘cultural, social and identity consciousness’: their ‘African Selfhood’; their ‘Being.’”—JOAN GRANT CUMMINGS, parent, Black feminist activist

Criminalized Mothers, Criminalizing Mothering

ed. by Joanne Minaker and Bryan Hogeveen

February 2015 / 978-1-926452-01-2 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 422 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / CRIMINOLOGY / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Criminalized Mothers, Criminalizing Mothering broadens the scope of criminalization in order to more fully understand criminalizing as a complex and nuanced process, intimately connected to forces of social exclusion and marginalization. Power relations and systemic issues—poverty, street entrenchment, colonialization, and patriarchy—figure prominently in the analyses.

“Minaker and Hogeveen enlarge and complicate our understanding of ‘criminal mothers,’ i.e., both mothers who are incarcerated and those who are viewed criminally, and make a valuable and timely contribution both to our understanding of criminal mothers specifically and contemporary motherhood generally.”

Performing Motherhood

Artistic, Activist and Everyday Enactments

ed. by Amber E. Kinser, Kryn Freehling-Burton and Terri Hawkes

December 2014 / 978-1-927335-92-5 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 312 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / PERFORMANCE STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Highlighting mothers' lived experiences, this collection examines mothers' creativity and agency as they perform in everyday life: in mothering, in activism, and in the arts.

"A remarkable collection of studies about mothering that combines scholarly theory, personal and professional passion, and hope for change through creating new choices. The voices of the writers reveal not only their diverse personalities and experiences of what constitutes family but also the range of challenges they face and their creative interactions with the role of mother, especially new mother. A must read for academic mothers and daughters." —ALICE H. DEAKINS, editor of Mothers and Daughters: Complicated Connections Across Cultures

Intensive Mothering

The Cultural Contradictions of Modern Motherhood

ed. by Linda Rose Ennis

December 2014 / 978-1-927335-90-1 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 344 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / SOCIOLOGY / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

To celebrate the twentieth anniversary of Sharon Hays' landmark book, The Cultural Contradictions of Motherhood, this collection will revisit Hays' concept of "intensive mothering" as a continuing, yet controversial representation of modern motherhood.

"This volume adds nuance to the field of motherhood studies by accounting for how consumerism and capitalism have complicated expectations and identities of motherhood and mothering in the last two decades."

—JENNIFER L. BORDA, Associate Professor of Communication, The University of New Hampshire

Patricia Hill Collins

Reconceiving Motherhood

ed. by Kaila Adia Story

The Music of Leaving poems by Tricia McCallum

September 2014 / 978-1-927335-93-2 / $14.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 100 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / ENGLISH LITERATURE / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

There is a music of leaving, as surely as there is that of arriving. And it is this distinct soulful music that we often hear, however faintly, in the background of our lives. McCallum's poems are about elephants being traipsed through the Queens Midtown Tunnel, an unstable child's slide, and roaming island dogs. About a visit to a family home before it is sold, a late night conversation in a plane above an ocean, and shrewd Irish falcons.

"With humility and 'incongruous grace,' McCallum masters the art of seeing—and reminds us as readers to look closely at what is lost or forgotten. A fugue of fleeting faces and moments, The Music of Leaving deserves—indeed, demands—to be savoured." —JENA STRONG, author of Don't Miss This

Mothering in East Asian Communities: Politics and Practices edited by Patti Duncan and Gina Wong

September 2014 / 978-1-927335-24-6 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 302 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / CULTURAL STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

"In Mothering in East Asian Communities, Duncan and Wong seamlessly rupture a homogenous identity category—that of the 'tiger mom.' The editors invoke the works of diverse contributors who critically challenge essentialized identity categories and racialized and sexualized experiences of women of color within the institution of motherhood and practices of mothering. Here, the edited volume grapples with globalization, transnationalism, and capitalism with an East Asian ethno-racial-cultural context. Duncan and Wong offer a personal and political analysis of motherhood that is socially and culturally constructed, shaped by race, class, culture, sexuality, and other social categories."

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / SEXUALITY STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Few words are as steeped in beliefs about gender, sexuality, and social desirability as "motherhood." Drawing on queer, postcolonial, and feminist theory, historical sources, personal narratives, film studies, and original empirical research, the authors in this book offer queer re-tellings and re-examinations of reproduction, family, politics, and community.

"This is a book that truly does address the queering of motherhood, parenthood and family(hood). Cutting-edge scholarship on lesbian, queer, trans and intersex experiences, as well as critical consideration of queer families and the queering of family studies, make this accessible book vital reading for anyone interested in parenting or family." —FIONA NELSON, Associate Professor, Sociology & Women's Studies, University of Calgary

Texas Girl

a memoir by Robin Silbergleid

June 2014 / 978-1-927335-38-3 / $19.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 232 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / LITERATURE / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

At twenty-seven years old, Robin Silbergleid decided to become a single mother. Not as a backup or "Plan B," but as a first choice. In her memoir Texas Girl, she raises fundamental questions about the nature of family and maternity at the turn of the twenty-first century. A must-read for anyone contemplating single motherhood, this biting honest memoir will resonate with anyone concerned with the vital feminist issue of what reproductive choice really means and the obstacles we face in pursuit of it.

"A beautiful portrait of mother love that gives new meaning to the word 'choice.'"
—SUSAN GUBAR, Distinguished Professor Emeritus of English, Indiana University, and author of Memoir of a Debulked Woman

Telling Truths: Storying Motherhood
 edited by Sheena Wilson and Diana Davidson

May 2014 / 978-1-927335-42-0 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 326 pp.
 WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Telling Truths: Storying Motherhood is a collection of creative non-fiction essays. Through story, contributing authors explore how expectations collide with the complex realities we face as we mother. They illustrate how mothering is inextricably linked to the positions we occupy within our specific socio-cultural contexts; how our versions of mothering are transformed in relationship to the children we raise, long for, and mourn. This anthology is an important contribution to ongoing dialogues that resist traditional expectations around motherhood.

"This is a book that tells some uncomfortable and some beautiful truths about what it means to mother in the twenty-first century."
 —SUSAN BOYCHUCK, Women's Words, University of Alberta

Mothers, Mothering and Motherhood Across Cultural Differences
 A Reader
 edited by Andrea O'Reilly

May 2014 / 978-1-927335-39-0 / $44.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 513 pp.
 MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / CULTURAL STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Mothers, Mothering and Motherhood Across Cultural Differences, the first-ever Reader on the subject matter, examines the meaning and practice of mothering/motherhood from a multitude of maternal perspectives. The Reader includes 22 chapters on the following maternal identities: Aboriginal, Adoptive, At-Home, Birth, Black, Disabled, East-Asian, Feminist, Immigrant/Refugee, Latina/Chicana, Poor/Low Income, Migrant, Non-Residential, Older, Queer, Rural, Single, South-Asian, Stepmothers, Working, Young Mothers, and Mothers of Adult Children. Each chapter provides background and context, examines the challenges and possibilities of mothering/motherhood for each group of mothers and considers directions for future research.

Birth of the Uncool
 poems by Madeline Walker

April 2014 / 978-1-927335-37-6 / $14.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 110 pp.
 MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / ENGLISH LITERATURE / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Birth of the Cool, a compilation album by jazz great Miles Davis, was released in 1957. That album defined "cool jazz": elegant, distant, hip, and stylish. Davis and his eight co-musicians made it all look so easy. From the time she was very young, the author was trying to be as cool as Davis's jazz: aloof, intellectual, desired, mysterious, alluring, and perfect. This book is an eclectic and uncoolly accessible collection of musings on motherhood, childhood, recovery, faith, and love.

"Walker raises the ordinary above the everyday and integrates the vernacular and high literature. With a deep understanding of language and mythology, Walker's first collection of poetry, birth of the uncool, slides in and out of opposites, demonstrating the unity of all things."—ARLEEN PARÉ, author of Leaving Now

On Huron's Shore

linked short stories by Marilyn Gear Pilling

April 2014 / 978-1-927335-34-5 / $19.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 270 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / ENGLISH LITERATURE / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Since 2002, Pilling has produced five books of poetry, and now, with On Huron's Shore, she has returned to fiction with a collection of linked stories about mothers, daughters, and sisters, set in the landscape of the Huron County of the mid-fifties juxtaposed with the Huron County of today. Gear Pilling takes a humorous and sensual look at the female members of one family as it was then, as it is now.

"Tirelessly energetic prose! I found this very enjoyable to read. My interest was maintained on every page... The prose is built not only on sharply realized scenes but on a multitude of unique and memorable details."

—JACK HODGINS, winner of the G.G.'s award for fiction

Disabled Mothers

Stories and Scholarship By and About Mothers with Disabilities
edited by Gloria Filax and Dena Taylor

March 2014 / 978-1-927335-29-1 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 368 pp.

GENDER AND WOMEN'S STUDIES / DISABILITY STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

This collection of 20 scholarly works and personal accounts from Canada, the U.S., and Australia explores and analyzes issues of parenting by mothers with a variety of physical and mental disabilities. The book also delves into pregnancy, birth, adoption, child custody, discrimination, and disability politics.

"The strength of this collection is the breadth and scope of the coverage on the subject of mothers with disabilities. Alternating between research studies and personal essays, this book provides important information and readability."

—MARY GRIMLEY MASON, Professor of English Emerita Resident Scholar, Brandeis University's Women's Studies Research

Mothering in the Age of Neoliberalism

GENDER AND WOMEN'S STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

The authors of this edited collection explore the meanings and reveal the detrimental effects of neoliberalism from the perspective of mothers. Whether the discussion is about mothers from India using maternalist narratives to fight environmental degradation, or mothers in rural Canada struggling to find affordable, quality child care within a de-industrializing, flexible labour market, it is crucial that the positionality of mothers be centralized within the global neoliberal narrative.

"This book does an admirable job in responding to the challenges of living and mothering in a neoliberal era. The topic is unambiguously significant and timely. We need this book."

“Borrowed Body is a coming-of-age narrative in which author, Valerie Mason-John introduces us to Pauline, a brilliant and sensitive Black girl, suffering figuratively and literally from mother loss. In order to survive, Pauline must use all her wit, fortitude, and intelligence to envision and create a world where to be Black and female was to be someone of worth, beauty, and significance.... A memorable and poignant story.”—AFUA COOPER, author of The Hanging of Angelique

“Mason-John is an ingenious story teller who allows us into the surprising, raw, gritty, and ruptured world of a young black girl who must come to terms with skin colour/race/self in her unnatural world.”

—LILLIAN ALLEN, founder of Dub Poetry in Canada

What We Hold in Our Hands

short stories by Kim Aubrey

November 2013 / 978-1-927335-33-8 / $19.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 153 pp.

ENGLISH LITERATURE / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

The ten stories in this debut collection are about the difficult choices inherent in caring for children, siblings, and partners, and the limits and limitlessness of love.

“Kim Aubrey writes deftly orchestrated stories of domestic surfaces disturbed by memories, dreams, and unspoken impulses. The mood is anxious. Aubrey’s narrators are sharply observant and observed yet often haunted by unexpressed desires. A brave first collection.”

—DOUGLAS GLOVER, author of Savage Love, 16 Categories of Desire, and Elle, winner of the Governor General’s Award for Fiction

Milk Fever

a novel by Lissa M. Cowan

November 2013 / 978-1-927335-20-8 / $19.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 262 pp.

ENGLISH LITERATURE / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

In 1789, Armande, a wet nurse who is known for the mystical qualities of her breast milk, goes missing from her mountain village. Céleste, a cunning servant girl who Armande once saved from shame and starvation, sets out to find her. As Céleste fights to save her from those plotting to steal the wisdom of her milk, Milk Fever is a rich and inspired tale set on the eve of the French Revolution — a delicious peek into this age’s history. The story explores the fight for women’s rights and the rise in clandestine literature laying bare sexuality, the nature of love and the magic of books to transform lives.

“Milk Fever is a sensuous and subversive novel, set at a time when printed books were beginning to change the world. Lissa M. Cowan draws together motherhood, breastfeeding and learning, and sets them centre stage in a story about the struggle for freedom, justice and reason: abstractions which here come to full, fleshy life.”

Fresh Hell: Motherhood in Pieces

by Carellin Brooks

November 2013 / 978-1-927335-32-1 / $14.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 87 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / LITERATURE / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

This literary think piece seesaws from disaster to delight, horror to grim resignation, much like motherhood itself. Fifty-two spare meditations, one for each week of baby's first year, cover subjects from baby poop to more baby poop, breastfeeding and its relation to same, broken nights and endless days, and all the other low points of having a baby.

"Brooks pushes past the boundaries of what mothers are allowed to say and lays bare her darkest anxieties and doubts about mothering."

—FRANCES GREENSLADE, author of By the Secret Ladder: A Mothers Initiation

Chasing Rainbows: Exploring Gender Fluid Parenting Practices

edited by Fiona Joy Green and May Friedman

September 2013 / 978-1-927335-18-5 / $24.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 200 pp.

LGBTQ STUDIES / GENDER STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

This book attempts to cast a lens on the messy and convoluted ways that feminist parents approach parenting their children in gender aware and gender fluid ways.

"Chasing Rainbows dares to ask how we as parents can guide our children—and ourselves—not only beyond the confines of the gender binary, but beyond the notion of gender itself.... I can't wait to see how parenting practices, gender 'norms,' and in fact, all of society, may change as a result of its publication."

—RACHEL PEPPER, author of Transitions of the Heart

Have Milk, Will Travel: Adventures in Breastfeeding

edited by Rachel Epp Buller

August 2013 / 978-1-927335-21-5 / $19.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 160 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / HUMOUR / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

With a foreword written by Pump Station founders Wendy Haldeman and Corky Harvey, Have Milk, Will Travel collects stories and poems by both established and emerging writers who address with brutal honesty the trials, tribulations, and laugh-out-loud turbulence of life as the one-stop milk shop.

"Humor is the best medicine for adults and breast milk is the best medicine for infants. Thanks Rachel Epp Buller for this terrific look at the sometimes complicated world of 'natural' mothering." —JOY ROSE, Founder, Museum of Motherhood

Motherhood Memoirs: Mothers Creating/Writing Lives

edited by Nicole Willey and Justine Dymond

July 2013 / 978-1-927335-16-1 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 264 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / LITERARY CRITICISM / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

The authors in this collection examine and critique motherhood memoir, alongside the texts of their own lives, while seeking to transform mothering practice—highlighting revolutionary praxis within books, or, when none is available, creating new visions for social change.

"This collection makes an important and timely advance on what contributors rightly argue is an understudied area of scholarship...."

—ELIZABETH PODNIEKS, Associate Professor, Ryerson University

Mother of Invention

How Our Mothers Influenced Us as Feminist Academics and Activists
edited by Vanessa Reimer and Sarah Sahagian

June 2013 / 978-1-927335-17-8 / $24.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 197 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / SOCIOLOGY / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Mother of Invention is an interdisciplinary collection that combines feminist theory with life writing to explore the diverse ways that mothers, whether or not they themselves identify as “feminist,” inspire feminist consciousness in their daughters and sons.

“Mixing creative writing, memoir, and academic research, the book demonstrates the impossibility of identifying one simple path to feminism—or one simple model for mothering.”—JANE TOLMIE, Associate Professor, Queen’s University

Lowballer

poems by Kim Goodliffe

June 2013 / 978-1-927335-23-9 / $14.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 78 pp.

ENGLISH LITERATURE / POETRY

In tree-planting lingo, a “lowballer” is the least respected person on any crew, one who plants slowly, earning little money. This narrative poem sequence takes the reader through clear-cut furrows where boulders shear, bears appear, minds crack and relationships must grow and change in order to survive.

“A detailed, proprioceptive exploration that gives us a complex map that the best poetry creates.”—BARRY MCKINNON

Laboring Positions: Black Women, Mothering and the Academy

edited by Sekile Nzinga-Johnson

June 2013 / 978-1-927335-02-4 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 313 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / EDUCATION / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

Laboring Positions offers a poly-vocal collection of essays with themes that privilege and arouse Black women’s mothering practices and labor as central in the narratives, research, and models of existence and resistance for Black women’s survival within the academy.

“Articles reveal ‘the transgressive, testimonial and transcendent power of the other mothers of the academy’ in vivid fashion. This is a critical read and a challenging text.” —DEIDRE HILL BUTLER, Director, Africana Studies, Union College, Schenectady, New York

Mothering Mennonite

edited by Rachel Epp Buller and Kerry Fast

May 2013 / 978-1-927335-12-3 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 312 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / RELIGIOUS STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

“By offering multi-varied positions from which to consider the concept of mother, Mothering Mennonite adds depth to common conceptions of Mennonite identity while also undoing stereotypes which surround mothering in that context. Together, the contributions offer an important glimpse into the intersection of gender, religion, culture, and identity.”

—MARLENE EPP, Professor, History and Peace & Conflict Studies, Conrad Grebel University College, University of Waterloo

Mothering and Literacies

edited by Amanda B. Richey and Linda Shuford Evans

April 2013/ 978-1-927335-14-7 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 294 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / EDUCATION

“A compelling collection of chapters Interdisciplinary and accessible, this unique collection invites readers to challenge historical and contemporary notions of what mothering means in the contested space of literacy practices, and it provides up-to-date analyses of digital literacies and literacy practices in global contexts.”

—NICHOLE A. GUILLORY, Kennesaw State University, Georgia

Incarcerated Mothers: Oppression and Resistance

eds. Gordana Eljdupovic and Rebecca Jaremko Bromwich

February 2013/ 978-1-927335-03-1 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 230 pp.

SOCIOLOGY / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

“Incarcerated Mothers offers an all too rare look behind the walls of penal institutions in different countries. This book admirably balances the voices of academia with those of lived experiences. From the perspective of prevention, examining the mother-child relationship is not new. Doing so with women convicted of a crime who are mothers first and foremost demands that we examine the shadow side of justice in an altogether novel way.”

—CHRISTIANE SADELER, Executive Director, Waterloo Region Crime Prevention Council

South Asian Mothering: Negotiating Culture, Family and Selfhood

edited by Jasjit K. Sangha and Tahira Gonsalves

January 2013/ 978-1-927335-01-7 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 192 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / SOCIOLOGY

“This book is a counterpoint to the dominant media images of South Asian women, offering insights into the complexities of their lives in a way that yields important understandings of women’s acts of agency in different times and places. An innovative addition to the field of mothering, as well as to literature on South Asians, migration, and broader fields of women’s studies, cultural studies, health and social sciences.”

—JUDITH MACDONNELL, RN, Ph.D., School of Nursing, York University

What Do Mothers Need? Motherhood Activists and Scholars Speak Out on Maternal Empowerment for the 21st Century

edited by Andrea O'Reilly

December 2012 / 978-1-927335-07-9 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 384 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / CULTURAL STUDIES

Contributors to the volume include various motherhood organizations—Canadian Native Women’s Association, Hip Mama, Welfare Warriors—as well as the leading motherhood scholars including Paula Caplan. Twenty-six chapters, organized into six sections: “Redefining Motherhood,” “Empowering Mothers,” “Mothers, Children and Families: Health and Well-Being,” “Mothers, Education and Social Change,” “Mothers, Partners and Parenting,” and “Mothers and Work.”

Rupture

prose and poetry by Clementine Morrigan

November 2012 / 978-1-927335-08-6 / $14.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 124 pp.

ENGLISH LITERATURE / FEMINIST STUDIES / THIRD WAVE FEMINISM / GIRLHOOD STUDIES

“Clementine has created a masterpiece. At times heartbreaking, her stories of sexuality, incest, alcohol and domestic violence are all too familiar. In the hands of young women, this book has the possibility of bringing about stronger friendships, louder voices and real change....”

—LAMESHA MELTON, writer & editor of cocoa/puss zine

Mothers, Daughters and Untamed Dragons

a novel by Aysan Sev'er

November 2012 / 978-1-927335-06-2 / $19.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 236 pp.

ENGLISH LITERATURE / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / SOCIOLOGY

“It is the central fractured relationship between mother and daughter in which the dragons in women are realized, expressed in maternal memories, regrets, recriminations, and daydreams. The raw emotion in this book makes it impossible to put it down until the very last heart-wrenching page.”

—VAPPU TYYSKÄ, Ryerson University

Stepmothering: A Spiritual Journey

Jasjit K. Sangha

November 2012 / 978-1-927335-10-9 / $19.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 146 pp.

SOCIOLOGY / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES

“This memoir is a must read for anyone who wants a deeper and more compassionate understanding of the experience of stepmothers and mothers. As an educator and researcher, I was drawn into the emotions and vulnerabilities that Jasjit Sangha expresses so vividly through her stories. This book is a powerful meditation on the vicissitudes of human relationships and of hope in the midst of struggle.”

—GRACE FEUERVERGER, author of Teaching, Learning and Other Miracles

My Mother Did Not Tell Stories

poems by Laurie Kruk

September 2012 / 978-1-927335-09-3 / $14.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 108 pp.

POETRY / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES

“With the heart of poet and a scholar’s steely eye, Laurie Kruk captures her subjects at key ‘intersections of public and private.’ Though the present may be fraught with ‘the keening of sirens’ and the past often seems ‘too radioactive to unearth,’ Kruk’s subjects—expectant or exhausted mothers, daughters, and grandmothers—ultimately lead her to encounter the miraculous. In these richly textured narratives, Kruk discovers a means to counter despair with hope, honouring the complexities of a life’s immersion in ‘mother time.’”

—JANE SATTERFIELD, author of Her Familiars

Noble Orphan

poems by Andrea Nicki

September 2012 / 978-1-927335-11-6 / $14.95 pb / 5.5 x 8.25 / 114 pp.

POETRY / ENGLISH LITERATURE / FEMINIST STUDIES

“Noble Orphan shows us that poetry truly can be found anyplace. In this book, the poet stretches her imagination to many situations. But most importantly, what is being taught is a new language and how to live in it. That our culture—individual or group—springs from and is based on community blossoms here. Language is the song and lifeblood of community and Andrea Nicki is its spokesperson.”

—ELOISE KLEIN HEALY, author of A Wild Surmise: New and Selected Poems

Adoption and Mothering

edited by Frances Latchford

September 2012 / 978-0-9866671-5-2 / $24.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 220 pp.

SOCIOLOGY / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / SOCIOLOGY

“This book will appeal to a wide variety of audiences: students, lay people, and academics alike. The articles, all enlightening and well-written, employ a variety of disciplines to shed light on novel topics in adoption and to elucidate more familiar ones. Even those very familiar with adoption scholarship can expect some aha moments.”

—MARTHA SATZ, adoptive mother, writer and assistant professor at Southern Methodist University

Moms Gone Mad: Motherhood and Madness, Oppression and Resistance

edited by Gina Wong

September 2012 / 978-0-9866671-7-6 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 240 pp.

PSYCHOLOGY / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES

“Founded in maternal scholarship this volume takes the idea of ‘madness’ as it has been applied to women as mothers and turns it on its head.... Gina Wong and her contributors provide an insightful critique of the mother blaming inherent in the ‘psy discourses....’ This book is a must read for mental health practitioners, feminist scholars, mothers and all who care about them.”

—PETRA BUESKENS, editor of Motherhood and Psychoanalysis: Clinical, Sociological and Feminist Perspectives

Mothering in Hip-Hop Culture: Representation and Experience

edited by Maki Motapanyane

August 2012 / 978-1-927335-00-0 / $14.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 152 pp.

CULTURAL STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES

“Thoughtfully compiled, beautifully written, and deeply theorized through a lens of feminist praxis, this collection features contributions by some of today’s brightest scholars. It is a must read and must teach for Women’s and Gender Studies, Hip-Hop Studies, and every other study that wants to get at the heart, soul, and materiality of mothering within and beyond hip-hop.”

—RACHEL RAIMIST, pioneer hip-hop feminist filmmaker

Academic Motherhood in a Post-Second Wave Context:

Challenges, Strategies and Possibilities

edited by Lynn O'Brien Hallstein and Andrea O'Reilly

April 2012 / 978-0-9866671-9-0 / $39.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 480 pp.

EDUCATION / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

"Prominent research ... to help make sense of the confusing (and, let's face it, depressing) situation academic women face when they have children. I finished reading feeling not only more informed but empowered...."

—ELISSA FOSTER, Director of Education and Program Evaluation, Department of Family Medicine, Lehigh Valley Health Network

Mother-Talk: Conversations with Mothers of Lesbian Daughters and FTM Transgender Children

by Sarah F. Pearlman

April 2012 / 978-1-927335-05-5 / $24.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 234 pp.

PSYCHOLOGY / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / SOCIOLOGY

"Sarah Pearlman is one of the leading lesbian scholars and therapists in the world.... Her book, Mother-Talk, continues this ground-breaking work by describing the experiences of mothers whose daughters come out as lesbian or transgender. I found the interviews riveting.... This book will be a classic for all the mothers out there wanting to hear from others who are going through similar experiences."

—ESTHER ROTHBLUM, Professor of Women's Studies, San Diego State University

An Anthropology of Mothering

edited by Michelle Walks and Naomi McPherson

December 2011 / 978-0-9866671-8-3 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 314 pp.

ANTHROPOLOGY / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES

"This anthology is a smorgasbord of contributions from different angles with great methodological variety. It would be a very useful book for cultural anthropologists and comparative sociologists, student midwives, and any health practitioners encountering pregnant women and mothers from other ethnic backgrounds and belief systems."

—SHEILA KITZINGER, author of The Politics of Birth

Through the Maze of Motherhood: Empowered Mothers Speak

Erika Horwitz

November 2011 / 978-0-9866671-4-5 / $34.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 250 pp.

PSYCHOLOGY / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES

"Through the Maze of Motherhood gives voice to women who bucked the norm of good motherhood ... and have no regrets. They mothered their way, and, in doing so, felt challenged but empowered. It is a must-read for independent-minded mothers and scholars."

—SHARI THURER, author of The Myths of Motherhood: How Culture Reinvents the Good Mother

Latina/Chicana Mothering

edited by Dorsía Smith Silva

May 2011 / 978-0-9866671-3-8 / $24.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 254 pp.

LATINA/CHICANA STUDIES / FEMINIST STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES

Latina/Chicana Mothering provides a glimpse into the journey of mothering within the diverse spectrum of the histories, struggles, and stories of Latinas and Chicanas.

“Essential reading in Chicana feminist work, women studies, ethnic studies, feminist theory, and motherhood.”

—RUTH TRINIDAD GALVÁN, University of New Mexico

Maternal Pedagogies: In and Outside the Classroom

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN’S STUDIES / FEMINIST THEORY / AVAILABLE AS E-BOOK

“A much-needed single anthology of the essential readings on theories of motherhood from the past three decades. Scholars and students alike will broaden their knowledge and their libraries with this indispensable collection of texts on mothers, mothering and motherhood. It’s a must read.”

—FIONA JOY GREEN, Chair, Women’s and Gender Studies Department, University of Winnipeg

“Until Our Hearts Are On the Ground”

Aboriginal Mothering, Oppression, Resistance and Rebirth

eds. D. Meme Lavell-Harvard and Jeannette Corbiere Lavell

October 2006 / 1-55014-461-8 / $29.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 250 pp.

ABORIGINAL STUDIES / MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN’S STUDIES / CULTURAL STUDIES

“Thought-provoking and memorable. Truly a book to be read with understanding of the Aboriginal woman’s perspective and understanding their attempt to fit in two worlds as a mother. It tells of hard lessons learned and wisdom gained from generations.”

—JOSEPHINE MANDAMIN, Lead Grandmother for the Mother Earth Waterwalk

Rocking the Cradle

Thoughts on Motherhood, Feminism and the Possibility of Empowered Mothering

Andrea O'Reilly

May 2006 / 1-55014-449-9 / $24.95 pb / 6 x 9 / 220 pp.

MOTHERHOOD STUDIES / WOMEN’S STUDIES

“This is an important book. It makes a powerful case for the necessity of empowered mothering, and anyone who has experienced motherhood as a radicalizing event in her own life will recognize herself in this nuanced, thoughtful discussion of what it means to be a feminist and a mother in the twenty-first century.”

—ANDREA BUCHANAN, author of Mother Shock
